APPLETREE CEU
CONTINUING EDUCATION COURSES

Upon successful completion of this course, attendees will learn how to evaluate and treat clients with pounds. The course will start by providing an overview of the anatomy and physiology as it relates to the skin. This will provide a foundation for understanding why and how to treat clients with wounds using a client-centered approach. Attendees will learn about all wound types, dressings, treatment interventions and teaching strategies to maximize wound healing. This course is designed to prepare clinicians for the wound care certification through NAWCO.

Objectives

- Assess and diagnose various wound etiologies and statuses using evidence-based tools and techniques.
- Interpret relevant lab results and assess nutritional, psychosocial, and functional factors impacting wound healing.
- Select and apply appropriate wound treatments, dressings, and adjunctive therapies based on wound characteristics and patient needs.
- Evaluate treatment effectiveness, reassess patient tolerance, and adjust care plans as needed.
- Educate patients, families, and interprofessional teams on wound management and prevention strategies.
- Identify evidence-based protocols, legal considerations, and administrative processes to wound care practice.
- Identify at-risk populations and implement preventative measures to maintain skin integrity.
